LIVING IN STATE.

The Remains of Jefferson Davis Viewed by Hundreds—Cities in Mourning.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 7.—The remains of Jefferson Davis are lying in state in the council chamber at the city hall. The coffin rests upon a catafalque and is devoid of much ornamentation. The casket has a silver plate upon which is the simple inscription, "Jefferson Davis, at rest," with the date of death. Badges of the Confederate associations, the flag of the Washington society and a bunch of Spanish daggers, as the plant is termed, fastened together with purple ribbon are the only other ornaments. The details of the mayor and clerks have been covered over and turned into a platform which is the receptacle for floral offerings. The room is garlanded by clusters of electric lights, their brilliancy being dimmed by the sable drapery. Soldiers in uniform stand guard, stacks of arms and cannon fill the corners of the chamber and all around the walls are rows of plants and shrubbery, forming a beautiful contrast. Since early morning people have been pouring in to obtain a last look at the dead. No crowding is allowed and the visitors are filed through the room in regular column. All classes are represented in the procession, by the hierarchies of colored people is marked. Mourning is general and every place of prominence in the city has put on black. The noteworthy event this morning was the visit of Mayor Shakespeare to Secretary of War Proctor, officially notifying him of the death of ex-Secretary Davis and the date of the funeral.

Mayor Shakespeare today issued the following proclamation: "As an outward sign of the love and admiration of our people for the illustrious man and statesman now lying dead in the city hall, I recommend that the commercial bodies and citizens generally drape in appropriate mourning and that on Wednesday, December 11, business be suspended and military organizations as well as individual citizens attend the funeral of Jefferson Davis."

EVIDENCES OF MOURNING. CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 7.—A memorial meeting will be held next Wednesday in respect to the memory of Jefferson Davis, under the auspices of the Confederate Survivors' association. The most distinguished speakers in the state will be invited to speak. The city officers will be closed and a general suspension of business will take place.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 7.—A meeting of the Confederate Survivors' association was held last night to make arrangements for memorial services on the day of the funeral. Governor Sayre, who has returned to the city, sent a telegram to Mr. Jefferson Davis saying: "It is the wish of our people that his grave may be made the monument to the Confederate dead on the Capitol hill at Montgomery erected to the memory of every soldier of the confederacy."

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 7.—Governor Lee sent the following telegram to Mr. Jefferson Davis: "The people of Virginia, who are deeply touched at the loss of one we have ever regarded with the greatest affection, and the memory of whose valor and virtue we will ever hold sacred."

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 7.—Upon receipt of the news of the death of Jefferson Davis, the people began draping their houses in mourning. The officers of the First regiment of Alabama state troops met last night. The colonel stated that he ordered the flag of the regiment placed at half mast on the armory. The following general order was issued: "The great captain of the southern forces in war, the life long citizen in peace, has answered 'here' to his name on the final roll call. The flag of this regiment will be hoisted at half-mast until the obsequies are over, and the officers of this command will wear mourning on their uniforms for thirty days."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 7.—A special to the Star from Marshall, Mo., says that at a meeting held at the court house this afternoon addresses eulogistic of Jefferson Davis were delivered and resolutions of regret at his death and of respect for his memory were adopted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The house of Mr. Frederick Fairfax, daughter of the late Lieutenant Cook of the United States army, was an object of interest to passers by today. The house is dark red with green blinds, and white and black mourning ing drapery was arranged so that the whole combined formed the colors of the dead confederacy. The house was thus draped in mourning to express Mrs. Fairfax's grief at the death of Jefferson Davis. A number of colored people gathered on the sidewalk opposite the house this afternoon and loudly criticized the action of the inmates, but they went no further, and at a late hour the dismal drapery was still in place, fluttering in the cool breeze.

Dec. 7.—The special joint committee appointed to prepare resolutions upon the death of the Hon. Jefferson Davis, submitted its report to the legislature this afternoon. The resolutions say in effect: Resolved, That the people of this commonwealth, having heard with profound sorrow of the death of the Hon. Jefferson Davis, ex-president of the Confederate States of America, recognize in the death of Mr. Davis the loss of the distinguished soldier, statesman and patriot. In every position of life whether on the field of battle, in the councils of the nation or as a chief of the southern confederacy, Mr. Davis was distinguished for his fidelity to principle, lofty patriotism and loyalty to the trusts imposed upon him. The people of the southern states, of whom he was chosen chief magistrate, are honored in his patriotic record and his stainless life. His name is inseparably connected with the history of our country and historians of the future will pass on and state have cleared away will assign to this hero a place among wise and good men of all the ages.

The chamber of commerce at a largely attended meeting adopted a lengthy preamble and resolutions from which the following is singled out: "At the close of this week this evening the malignant hate and persecution he bore himself with much high courage and lofty consciousness of right to win in even greater degree than before the cause and affection of the people whom he had in other years so faithfully served. These vicarious sufferings for the deed of the southern people, devotedly ended in our hearts; as representatives of this section of the country; that as a mark of respect to his memory this chamber requests the people of this state and in erecting a monument to his memory. The resolutions conclude as follows: Resolved, That in Mr. Davis' public and private life we recognize the cardinal virtues of a brave, true American manhood. In all his acts he was honest; in all things pure. He never swerved from conscientious conviction of duty and right. Neither friend nor foe can point to a fault in his record that is tainted with falsehood or stained with reproach."

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 7.—One hundred thousand dollars will be raised for Jefferson Davis' family by the sale of part of the valuable land of his estate in Arkansas. The severest cases of asthma are immediately relieved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

ITS BUSINESS FINISHED.

The Farmers Alliance Meeting at St. Louis Closed.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 7.—The farmers convention was in session again today and closed up their business and adjourned to meet on the second Tuesday in December 1890, at Jackson, Fla. The day was devoted mainly to finishing the revision of the constitution and trying to smooth the way for consolidation with northern alliance. Terms were finally agreed upon and Kansas and South Dakota go at once, but the other states defer action until the matter can be submitted to the separate state alliances. What the terms of consolidation are is kept secret. The name of the organization has been changed to "National Farmers' alliance and industrial union." Headquarters will be established at Washington where the president, secretary and chairman of the executive committee will transact business. A judicial committee, which is practically a trial court, was appointed as follows: R. C. Pate, of Mississippi; chairman; Isaac McClellan, of Arkansas; and E. Jones, of Texas. The executive committee is composed of C. W. Macmillan, of Washington city; A. Wardell, of South Dakota; and J. E. Billman, of Tennessee. The business agents, who are purchasing stores and other affairs of the order, have organized and style themselves the Business Agents association. J. B. Dines, of St. Louis, was elected president; W. W. Holland, of Kentucky, vice president, and O. Wilson, of New York, secretary.

FOUR BURNED TO DEATH.

Fire in Cotton at a Steamship Pier Does Fatal Work.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Fire broke out at the river end of the national steamship pier No. 39, North river, shortly before 2 p. m., among a number of bales of cotton. About twenty-five men were at work near the spot. Some of them remained to assist in putting out the flames. A number of them were badly burned, and four of them burned to death, as follows: John Whalen, the dock carpenter; James Barry, watchman; Richard Johnson, colored, and an unknown colored man.

The pier cost $250,000, and was entirely destroyed. The steaming party is still at work, and it is feared others have been burned, as there are still nine missing.

THE PROPOSITION MADE.

The Cherokee Commission Meets the Indian Committee.

TALIEQUAH, I. T., Dec. 7.—Negotiations with the United States commissioners were commenced yesterday, the Cherokee commission having perfected their organization. The first meeting was formal, and no business was transacted. General Fairchild laid before the Cherokee the plan proposed to buy the strip at $125 per acre. "It is the proposition we submitted to the Cherokee people," he said, "and it is the proposition we are authorized to make."

Chairman Duncan, of the Cherokee commission, asked if the commissioners were not authorized to make another proposition. "There is the plain proposition," repeated Mr. Fairchild. "I will you accept it? If not, why? If there are any conditional terms to be considered it is for you to make them."

Mr. Bushyhead asked that the proposition be made in writing, which will be done. It will be the next point of the commissioners to inquire into the jurisdiction of the commission. It has been the scope of its authority will extend. The senate debated whether they should accept $6,000 collected by this way from the cattle company at the expiration of the old lease in October, 1888. Three months intervened before a new lease was voted. The cattle company offered to pay for this three months and Chief Mayes, without authority collected $6,000 of the amount. He was severely denounced by Senator Ross for this action.

There was a man of our town and he was wondrous wise. He jumped into a bramble bush and scratched out both his eyes. And when he saw his eyes were out, with all his might and main, he bought a bottle of Salvation Oil, and rubbed them in again. The freight rates on our trunk lines have been advanced, but this will have no effect on the price of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, which is sold at the old price of 25 cents a bottle.

WILLIAMS' CONGRATULATIONS.

Emin Pasha and Stanley Congratulated by the German Emperor.

(Copyrighted, 1889, by the New York Associated Press)

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The latest news from Emin Pasha is that there are strong hopes of his recovering. The brain is now known to be uninjured and the fever is reduced. In response to an inquiry from the emperor Major Wissmann cabled: "Emin Pasha is much better but he must for the present remain at Bayamoya. He charges me to tell your majesty that the emperor's congratulations are the best reward for all this work, and he begs leave to express his humble thanks for them."

The emperor left Dessau on Thursday for Darmstadt where he cabled to Emin: "Now you have at last returned from your post, and have remained for eleven years with truly German loyalty and devotion to duty. I am glad to greet you, sending my congratulations and imperial appreciation. I have been very satisfied from the fact that it was through the territory under our protection that German forces were able to smooth the way to the coast for the emperor. At the same time the emperor cabled to Stanley as follows: "Thanks to your perseverance and inflexible courage you have now after repeatedly crossing the dark continent overcome a new and long succession of exceeding perils and almost unendurable hardships. The after have been rewarded by the return journey should lead you through lands covered by my flag, affords me great satisfaction, and I welcome you heartily to civilization and civility."

Stanley wires the following answer: "Imperator rex: My expedition has now reached the end. I have had the honor to be hospitably entertained by Major Wissmann and other of your majesty's officers under him since arriving from Mpwapwa. Our travels have come to a successful conclusion. We have been taken across from Bagamoya to Zanzibar by your majesty's ships, Sherber and Schwalbe, and all honors, coupled with affability, have been accorded to me. I have been deeply indebted to the hospitality and princely affability extended to me at Potsdam and am profoundly indebted to your majesty's condescension, kindness and gracious welcome. With a full and sincere heart I exclaim, 'Long live the noble Emperor William.'"

The emperor was immensely pleased with Stanley's reply, which shows that the explorer has caught the ringing style agreeable to imperial ears. He read it aloud, controlled by a brilliant smile, at a supper given last night by the grand duke of Hesse. Before starting for the deer park at Gross Jernu today the emperor cabled Stanley, urging him to make an early visit here and giving him hearty assurances of a warm German greeting. The strain among the Westphalian miners is spreading. The employers refuse to negotiate with delegates on behalf of the men. The masters have relied upon the insufficient fund of the miners to defeat them but they find themselves mistaken. The various relief committees have ample funds.

The men in the treasury coal mines of the Saar have appealed to the emperor for aid. They say that even the unmarried men can not live on the present wages. From Hamburg a telegram says that all advice from Rio de Janeiro concur in the report that perfect quiet reigns and that there is a full resumption of trade and all industrial and mercantile activity. Premier Pietro, now at sea, is expected to land at Hamburg from whence he will immediately go to Cannes for conference with Don Ferris.

The meeting of the adherents of the monarchy to decide the tone of action to be followed will not be held until Don Pedro reaches Cannes. In the active mind of Don Pedro is advised to maintain absolute silence in order that no utterances of his may prejudice the monarchist cause.

IOWA CIDER CASES.

MASON CITY, Ia., Dec. 7.—The second of the cider cases which has attracted much interest throughout the state was brought to a close today, the jury returning a verdict that the nineteen 25-gallon barrels belonging to M. J. Collins (lawyer) were seized and could not be sold in the state. The case was not considered by the state attorney as being as strong a one as that tried on Saturday last resulting in a verdict against the state. The latter case will be appealed while the former will be brought up again before the grand jury.

"Puzzled The Doctors."

MOST of the cases cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla have been given up by the regular practice. Physicians are recommending this medicine more than ever, and with satisfactory results.

E. M. Sargent, Lowell, Mass., says:—"Several years ago my daughter was out with large sores on her hands, face, and other parts of her body. The case puzzled the doctors. My daughter used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and in a complete cure. Her blood seemed to have been thoroughly purified, as she has never had so much as a pimple since taking this medicine."

"This is to certify that after having been sick for twelve years with kidney disease and general debility, and having been treated by several physicians without relief, I am now better in every respect, and think I am nearly well, having taken seven bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—Maria Ludwison, Albert Lea, Minn.

THE FORT WORTH & DENVER.

Its Arrangement with the Union Pacific Only a Traffic Agreement.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 7.—President Morgan Jones, of the Fort Worth & Denver road, returned from New York today, where he has been attending the conference of the officials of the Panhandle and Union systems, at which the consolidation of the two roads was discussed.

"Has the Denver been sold?" asked the reporter, point blank. "No, sir, there has been no sale of the road."

"Has there been any transfer of stock?" "No, I hold all my stock, and more than I had before."

"What is the character of the agreement between the two systems?" "It is simply a traffic agreement, which will be under the management of the Union Pacific."

"Will there be any changes in the officials of the road under the new management?" "There will be some changes at the Denver end, but there will be but few in Texas."

As to what changes would be made in the officials, President Jones declined to be quoted, but there is no doubt now that Channing F. Meek will be general manager of the Fort Worth & Denver road.

Mr. B. F. Caley will certainly be the auditor. The boys at this end of the line are on the anxious seat, and will be waiting for the first sign of activity.

ROOSEVELT DENIES CHARGES. WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A letter from Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt to Mr. Swift, of the Indian service reform league, was made public today. Its main points are as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 4. Lucius H. Swift, Esq. "I never pay any attention to the letter asking me what there is to be said in answer to the charges contained in the following editorial from the Indianapolis Journal on December 2."

"There is no doubt that the system of civil service examinations is capable of improvement in several particulars. Commissioner Roosevelt recently complained of Postmaster General Wanamaker, because he was reported to have criticized the character of the questions proposed to applicants for admission to the railway mail service. Mr. Roosevelt is an enthusiastic young man and an ardent supporter of the present methods, but though he means well, he is hasty. There is abundant activity in the criticisms are well founded. The latest comes from Senator Gorman, a man who is no friend of the reform, but whose testimony in individual cases is not worthy of attention that if he were its supporter. Said Mr. Gorman, in a recent talk with a reporter.

"I never pay any attention to the small appointments, but there was one case in Baltimore, some time ago, that attracted my attention. A very bright young man, splendidly educated and perfectly familiar with every street and number in the city, submitted himself for examination for a position as letter carrier. He could read, write and was a good looking night school, and in every way fitted for a letter carrier, but he failed when asked the most direct route from Baltimore to Chicago. He said he had never been in Chicago, nor did he expect to go there, and he only wanted to be a letter carrier."

"At the first place, I did not complain of Mr. Wanamaker at all. When a reporter showed me some very extraordinary remarks and criticism on our railway mail service, I said 'hear out the whole or in part, the well founded' criticisms contained in the apocryphal interview to which the Journal refers."

"Now as to the alleged remark of Senator Gorman. No letter carrier is ever asked in any of our examinations what is the direct route from Baltimore to Chicago. I defy any one to specify any such examination where this or any similar question has been asked during my term of service as commissioner, and my colleague, Mr. Lyman, authorizes me to state in the broadest and most emphatic terms that none of our examinations of this character ever have contained any such questions."
